"Cultural adaptation is more powerful than technological innovation" - Dr Simon Quilty (NT heat scientist)
"Digitization is not the solution, it's just a new set of problems." - Seb Chan
"Often a presenter doesn't know the cultural references. Or spend time in the communities (that these artworks are for or from)". - Tiyan Baker

(what are the) "techno-cultural ~~possibilities~~ values of our time"? Felix Stalder - The Digital Condition
"digital security (and safety) is tied to digital literacy - and that is LOW" - Rosealea Pearson
"if i'm in your digital space, that is an ongoing relationship" - Emele Ugavule
"We have discovered the possibility of making all content accessible to everyone, but we have abandoned the forms which bound the content and gave it context and meaning." TEA

"The biggest part of seeing isn't receiving visual images; it's making sense of them" - Bill Bryson - The Body: A guide for occupants
"(live streamed events) You are no longer surrounded by a context, you are gazing upon an object" - River Lin

"A digital program should be physical. and disruptive. and dissident." - Michael Candy
"Art should comfort the disturbed and disturb the comfortable" - Cesar A. Cruz
"how do we give our audience a gift of solitude? of privacy? intimacy? intimate encounters?" - Satu Herala
"how the interface and intention-of-design works on us" - Su YuHsin
"use the tool, but don't trust it, don't let it take over, don't let it take your agency" - Robin Fox

"We seek to abolish the separation between poetry and mass communication, to reclaim the power of media from the merchants and return it to the poets and the sages." - The Post-Futurist Manifesto, Franco Berardi, February 2009
"We need cultural institutions and non-commercial structures to support people to do critical and creative work. When those institutions erode, advertisers and private interests step into the breach and gain influence, and the public sphere suffers". - Astra Taylor
"The need for access to advanced technology and the skills (or a team of skilled people) with which to deploy it." - FAE 1
"The internet is the discourse, not just digitising work" - Natasha Tontey
"The digital revolution is over" - Nicholas Negroponte